

PRICES GO UPWARD

Weak Opening Followed by Rush to Buy Stocks.

PENNSYLVANIA IS A LEADER

No Pressure to Sell Develops and Plans to Meet It Are Needless.
Action Abroad Is Responsible for the Poor Showing at the Opening.
New York Central Was Strong.

New York, Nov. 4.—The stories printed in detail in the morning newspapers of the all-night conference between prominent bankers, talk of an extra session of Congress, and the advance to 6 per cent in the Bank of England rate of discount, ordered in advance of the regular meeting day of the directors of the institution, were naturally reflected here this morning at the opening of the stock market.

These adverse forces, however, were more or less accounted for by the publication of a very poor weekly return of the Imperial German Bank, showing a large increase in loans and equally heavy decrease in cash, from which the only inference to be drawn was that conditions in other parts of the international financial world besides our own were in a state of strain.

Wall Street Surprised.
Events in our market to-day, however, were of a nature that took the majority of the financial community, and especially speculators for the day, by surprise. Wall street braced itself for a shock, and the shock did not appear, or, at least, was of such feeble sort that it could not be regarded as a shock at all.

Instead of the occurrence of another semi-panic, as many people expected, the lowest prices of the day in the market were those that made, and those quotations were in a few instances as low as those set earlier from London. After this opening weakness prices of stocks through the day steadily improved.

It is probable that a certain quantity of definite and concentrated support was extended to the market in view of the peculiar and delicate nature of the existing situation; but it was clear, on the other hand, that little of this support was needed.

No Pressure to Sell.
Absolutely no pressure to sell stocks developed, and when operators for the fall endeavored to take the opportunity offered by the first low quotations to retire their market commitments they found only trifling quantities of stocks offered for sale. Closing prices of stocks were but little below the highest, and were commonly at advances from one to two points.

The strongest among the active shares was Pennsylvania stock, which more than recovered the 3 1/2 per cent semi-annual dividend deducted from its price this morning. This afforded indubitable testimony that much of the recent selling of the Pennsylvania shares, which has attracted so much attention, has been for the short account.

The demand for the New York Central, Pennsylvania, and certain other shares in the stock exchange loan market to-day was such as to command a premium for the use of the stocks for delivery.

NEW YORK MONEY.

New York, Nov. 4.—Money on call at the stock exchange to-day opened at 20 per cent; high, 20; low, 19; closing, 19 per cent. Most of the loans were at 20 per cent.

Time money was still unobtainable, nominal rates being 4 1/2 to 5 per cent. The sterling market showed another violent advance to-day, demand rates advancing 2 cents to 4 1/2 and cables 3 cents to 4 1/2. Before the close there was a partial reaction. Rates for American business were: Sixty days, 4 1/2; three months, 4 1/2; six months, 4 1/2; one year, 4 1/2.

The supply of grain bills was good, but difficult to sell.

Consoling Reflections Found in Action of Market.

MEANING OF LONDON PRICES

Too Much Importance Attached to the Action of the Bank of England's Discount Rate Raise—Rumor of Transfer of Control of Tennessee Coal and Iron.

New York, Nov. 4.—"If," said a conservative banker to-day, "people in Wall street will take the trouble to compare the relative conditions in Wall street and the rest of the country now with those of last March, the comparison will give rise to many consoling reflections. It is not for me to indicate what the nature of these will be."

If London quotations meant anything, they meant that the foreigners have recently been badly whipped in American stocks. On Saturday practically all the leading American issues traded in the London Stock Exchange showed quite large advances. To-day they showed equally large declines. The trouble with the foreigners was that they attached too much importance to the action of the Bank of England in raising its discount rate to 6 per cent, and too little to the probability that the conference of local bankers here, which continued practically through the night, had devised remedies for the unpleasant factors of the situation.

After the market has traveled for a long time in one direction, it reaches a point from which it may change very quickly into an opposite movement. It reached that point at the opening, stayed there a very short while, and then began a reverse movement, which soon attained very considerable velocity. It was a remarkable change, and it took the traders completely by surprise. Most of them had come down town filled with apprehension as to what the day might bring forth, and some of them had lost no time in getting in selling orders at the opening.

Sheer fright had got the better of judgment, and it was not until the market had not only demonstrated its ability to take a sudden change in the way of a fair volume of selling, that the traders were brought back to their senses. Having recovered from their fright, they began to buy stocks, and the more they bought, the faster they gained courage to enlarge their commitments on that side of the market. A more complete change of sentiment could hardly be imagined.

The most interesting and the most influential of the many rumors as to what to-day to the change in the market was the one which asserted that at the bankers' conference on Sunday night arrangements had been perfected for the transfer of control of the Tennessee Coal and Iron Company from the pool, or syndicate, which has held it for about two years, to the hands of interests friendly to the United States Steel corporation.

The position of that syndicate had long been a subject of gossip of a kind not calculated to strengthen confidence in the stability of the market, and it has recently been rumored that the stock, although not easily negotiable, is held as security for a loan by a concern which could find a better employment for its money.

Assuming that a deal has been arranged, all uneasiness as to the position of the syndicate and of the lender, which advanced money on the stock as collateral, will disappear as factors from the situation. As a restorer of confidence the transaction would be of very great importance.

A few stocks loaned at a premium, a few flat, and the balance of the active list at rates considerably under the money rate, when the latter was at fairly high figures during the forenoon. This plainly indicated the existence of a large short interest and added to the confidence with which the traders advanced themselves to the bull side.

GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

Quotations furnished by Miller &amp; Co., members of the New York Stock and Cotton exchanges and the New Orleans Cotton Exchange, 133 F street northwest.

Chicago, Nov. 4.—Wheat opened lower, following a break in Liverpool; further advance of 4 per cent in Bank of England discount rate, reported heavy rains in Australia, and large Russian shipments. On the decline the local crowd turned bullish on rumors of liberal export sales and immediately started buying wheat, and the result was a strong market, about 1 cent over Saturday's closing. The tone was bullish, and the market, considering the recent decline, can be said to be in the situation to advance. Estimated to close at 1 1/2.

Corn improved in sympathy with wheat, but later scored a healthy advance as a result of the report of a sharp decline in the local corn. The news in general was quite bullish, and the market returned from almost every section of the belt. Improvement in the stock market and a probability that the good demand would spring up as soon as the financial clouds had passed helped the advance. Estimated to close at 1 1/2.

Oats opened with a sharp decline on selling by local bulls and a few shorts. Later buying orders appeared which speedily caused recovery of the opening loss, and after the close of the day the market was helped somewhat by the strength in corn. Slippers are practically out of the market in wheat, the only cash buying was for local purchases. Offerings were light. Estimated to close at 1 1/2.

Rye improved in sympathy with wheat, but later scored a healthy advance as a result of the report of a sharp decline in the local rye. The news in general was quite bullish, and the market returned from almost every section of the belt. Improvement in the stock market and a probability that the good demand would spring up as soon as the financial clouds had passed helped the advance. Estimated to close at 1 1/2.

Barley improved in sympathy with wheat, but later scored a healthy advance as a result of the report of a sharp decline in the local barley. The news in general was quite bullish, and the market returned from almost every section of the belt. Improvement in the stock market and a probability that the good demand would spring up as soon as the financial clouds had passed helped the advance. Estimated to close at 1 1/2.
